Although frequently urging him to pay the sum due my client, which he had been ordered sum due my chent, which he had been ordered by the court to pay, I at all times treated him with the utmost kindness and leniency. Some time during August last I spoke to him con-cerning the matter in front of the police court room, and he then and there promised me he would pay one-half of the sum due on the 1st of September and the balance October 1st, This is the three balance October 1st, This promise, like others before it, was made only to be broken.

But when he so lorgets himself, and is so lost to every sense of decency and self-respect as to drag into a personal or political controversy my wife and my children, and charge as he did that they are living in a stolen house, I consider that he is justly entitled to the censure and contempt of all honorable, fair-minded citizens. As for my house heigh "stated" or having been obtained house being "stolen" or having been obtained in any other than by the most honerable means, when Mr. Godwin even intimates such a thing he knows he utters an infamous-ly wicked, malicious falsehood.

No man in Omaha ever secured title to his nome by means more honorable and fair than secured the title to the place which gives I secured the title to the place—which gives shelter to my wife and children. Every person who ever furnished a cent's worth of material for my house, or did an hour's work on the same, received his full pay without dispute or delay. As for the land, it was originally owned by Harrison Johnson and John t. Redick. For the portion owned by Mr. Redick I traded other land of equal value. The portion owned by Mr. Johnson had been mertgaged by him, and the mortgage had been foreclosed by Abner French, who also held tax claims against the property. Mr. Johnson then suggested that I purchase his equity of redemption, and save the property from sheriff's sale under the foreclosure of French's mortgage. This I agreed to do and did do. A deed was executed and deliv-ered to me by Mr. Johnson and his wife. I paid them as I agreed, and I paid off all the mortgages and paid up the taxes, aggregating all about $10,000. I was not the attorney for Mr. French, and ceeded to a formal ballot, resulting:

Johnson will do so as well, and will, I think, further state that in all my dealings with him I treated him fairly and henorably. That he was unfortunate and was obliged to part with this and other property, is true, but such mis-fortune was by reason of his indebtedness, and the then depreciation in real estate, and is not in any degree attributable to me. A certain class of individuals, among them Mr. Godwin, jealous of the success of others, seem to coniderthat every man who has been successful in life, has secured what he possesses by unfair or dishonorable dealings.

This is his sole ground for the charges he makes. I defy him to make or sustain a oecific charge against me. I only wish he could say as much for him-elf. The specific charges that could both be m de and sustained against him, are legion. Not only the case of embezzlement as admin-

Judge Anderson, who following delegates were elected to at-represented one of the heirs of the Newgran tend the Anti-monopoly convention from represented one of the heirs of the Newgren estate, was obliged to sue him and obtain judgment, and it was only by reason of a threatened levy on the stock of Mr. Falconer, his bondsman and the threat of going before the grand jury and having Mr. Godwin in the grand jury and having Mr. the grand jury and having Mr. Godwin indicted for embezzlement, that the money was fortheoming, thereupon, in the language of the officer holding the execution. Godwin went down into his boot-leg and drew forth the amount claimed by Judge Anderson; and by so deing, escaped a trip to Lincoln.

Such is the great reformer, who according to the Herald, is equal, in a small way, of Tilden or Cleveland, and who is now asking the votes of law abiding and debt-paying citizens, that he may be resected district attorney. Respectfully, W. J. CONNELL.

This was sufficient to slacken the speed of the train very greatly, but did not bring it to a full stop. The engine struck the obstruction and the forward trucks jumped from the track. This brought the train to a standstill and it was found that all the cars remained safe upon the rails. Besides a shaking up and a slight scare, the passengers were all right and

A GRAND RESPONSE.

Mr. S. H. H. Clark Acknowledges the Receipt of the Present from

U. P. Employes.

Mr. S. H. H. Clark, late general manager of the Union Pacific railway has sent the following letter to the heads of the committee of the veteran employes of Plumes Claned or Colored any shade, to sample, sikes, Velvets and Laces Cleaned, Dyed and Re-unthe railway, who called at his house tel recently with an address, in which they expressed their esteem for and regret at parting with him:

OMAHA, October 18.—To George E. Strat-mann and David Knox of committee—Gentlemann and layed Knox of committee—Gentis-men:—Allow me to express sincere regret on account of my absence the night yourselves with so many other employes called at my residence and presented those touching reso-lutions of friendship relating to myself, who, during eighteen years, wrought side by side with you for our common interest viz-ths with you for our common interest, viz: the Welfare and success of the Union Pacific Reilway coupany.

Permit me to inform each and all of you it is now and will continue to be in the future

a source of much gratification and pleasure to know that after so many years of constant service among you, I have retained your respect, confidence, love, which attributes, and elements of character, as manifested by your cordial greeting and in your engrossed testimonial are more valuable to me than any gut of gold at your command.

The former are heaven-born principles and will grow brighter as the ages disappear, whereas the latter at beat is only temporary, affording us no genuine pleasure now or here-

One third of a century ago-this is my for ty-eighth birthday, I began business life, hav-ing as a foundation and guiding star the fol-lowing precepts: 1st "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you'.' 2d. "T laborer is worthy of his hire." I leave it f the employers and employes of the Union Pa-cific railway compony, from which I have so lately a vered my connection, to say whether or not I have succeeded in carrying out thes two God given maxims. During the long period of our official rela-tions and mutual eff rts, we have seen and have experienced much are, anxiety, hard-ship, peril; but we did not complain nor did we murmer. We quitted ourselves like men doing with our might what our hands found to do; but now I desire to repeat what I have many times said, both at home and abroad that a more paicstaking, hardworking, self sacrificing class of em loyes than are those of the Union Parific cannot be found on the American continent. Again, permit me to assure you I fully ap-preciate your kindly sentiments, and thank you for them with my whols heart. Indeed, the respect, regard and esteem of thousands of employes is something of which any perso ought justly to feel proud, to which feelings plead guilty.

Please accept for yourselves, your wives and little ones, and for the great army of men whom you represent, my heartfelt wishes for your and their han mess forever.

Yours truly,

S. H. H. CLARK.
